TUMULTY'S PLEA FREED O'CALLAGHAN

With the expiration of the time limit fixed for the departure of Donald O'Callaghan, the stowaway Lord Mayor of Cork, it was learned that the action of Secretary of Labor Wilson in admitting O'Callaghan on parole was taken because of the personal intervention of Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary to the President. Acting on his own initiative and without consultation with the President, Mr. Tumulty, as soon as word was received at Washington of O'Callaghan's arrest by immigration officials in Norfolk as a stowaway attempting to enter the United States without a passport, communicated by telephone with Secretary of Labor Wilson, and asked that the Lord Mayor be paroled pending an appeal of his case. Believing that Mr. Tumulty's message represented the will of the President in the matter, Secretary Wilson, without consultation with the State Department, reversed the decision of the immigration authorities at Norfolk deporting O'Callaghan, and authorized his admission on parole. The State Department then intervened, and at the conference at the White House set forth strong reasons why no exception should be made in favor of O'Callaghan.

JURY DECIDES SPRACKLIN IS "NOT GUILTY"

Windsor, Ont., February 24.—After deliberation for exactly 55 minutes at the conclusion of two days and a half of a trial that made Canadian legal history, the jury at the Sandwich assizes brought in a verdict of "not guilty" in the case of Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, pastor of Sandwich Methodist church, accused of "unlawfully slaying and killing one Beverly Trumble."

After being addressed by the counsel in the case and charged by Chief Justice Sir William Mulock, presiding judge, the jury left the court room at 2:30. Exactly at 3:15 they returned to the court and made public the verdict that made the accused minister a free man.

The verdict was not in any way a surprise, for the general opinion of the public has been, since the opening of the case, that Spracklin would be acquitted, but nevertheless the atmosphere was tense while the crowds that thronged the court were waiting for the return of the "twelve good men and true" who held the fate of the "fighting parson" in their hands.

LANGSHANS SUPERSEDE TURKEYS

Is the day of the American Turkey as an actual table fowl done? It looks like it. Their restless wandering habits, their extreme tenderness when young, their susceptibility to disease, and the absence of profit when marketed, all tell against them. Then, too, the Black Langshans, reputed to be distant relatives of the Turkey family, are gradually replacing them.

The Langshans are nearly as large, have better flesh, are as hardy as turkeys, and are good winter layers of large nutritious eggs. They have less offal waste.

Although an old and popular breed of fifty years' standing in England, it is only within the last year or two that they have really been "discovered" in Canada. Poultrymen of all sorts show have remarked upon the large numbers and good quality shown.

So great has been the demand for them that one large breeder is so sold out and cannot supply any more this year. Prices will be high for breeding birds in the spring. Get hold of what you can now and save money.

The Langshan Society of Canada, (D. J. MacLean, 22, Erskine Avenue, Toronto, is Secretary-Treasurer), are ready to give any information they possess. Write for their descriptive booklet. It is free. J. W.

CRERAR'S PARTY HAS LOST FAITH IN GOVERNMENT

Leader of National Progressives Supports Vote of Loss of Confidence.

Ottawa, February 24.—Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressives, today entered the house debate on the address. Mr. Crerar is the first of his party to speak this session, and his entry into the discussion was followed with keen attention by a well attended house and full gallery.

Mr. Crerar supported the opposition amendment to the address on the ground that the government had lost the confidence of the country.

The speech from the throne, in Mr. Crerar's opinion, resembled the statement of "assets and liabilities of a company going into liquidation." He had no faith in the promised tariff revision and thought the mass of evidence collected by the tariff commission would be of very little value. It was a great misfortune that reciprocity with the United States had been turned down—at this time were loud Liberal cheers—and Mr. Crerar urged development of Canadian agriculture and Canadian natural resources to supply the growing markets south of the international boundary.

He criticized the department of trade and commerce for having no trade agents in the United States, although there were Canadian trade agents in such distant countries as China, Australia and New Zealand.

RIGID ECONOMY NECESSARY

He urged rigid economy, felt that Canada should enjoy a naval holiday for five years and regarded acceptance of the war vessels from Great Britain as the greatest mistake the government had made. He touched on the national railway problems, suggesting appointment of a parliamentary committee to discuss its outside party politics, revaluation of the roads, reorganization of the board of directors, with representation from the employees thereon and vigorous immigration policy to develop traffic.

He regarded the coming London conference of dominion premiers with evident apprehension. "Before this country is pledged to any scheme for joint imperial defense," he declared, "both opposition parties agree cheering. There should be the sanction of the parliament."

Mr. Crerar thought there would be no need of the present stage if equitable laws permitted all in Canada a fair chance to make a living.

Ontario branch of the Dominion alliance are holding a three day convention in Toronto.

The United States Pacific fleet will not undertake a cruise to Australia as expected. A desire to economize in fuel is said to be the cause of the change in plans.

SUICIDES TO PROVE SPIRITUALISTS' CLAIM.

Spiritualists and other students of psychic phenomena are deeply interested in the suicide at Detroit, on February 7, by asphyxiation, of Prof. Thomas Lynn Bradford, a Columbia College graduate and student of the higher forms of science. Bradford is believed to have deliberately severed the tie which bound him to the material world so that he might prove beyond a doubt the truth of his oft-expressed conviction that not only is there life beyond the grave, but also that it is within the power of the dead to communicate with the living. Close friends of the dead scientist declare that only recently he made an agreement with a young Detroit woman, who had become deeply interested in his theories of communication across the mystic borderland, to take his own life, so that he might, by actual demonstration, prove to her and through her to the world, that his theories regarding spirit communication are in reality based on knowledge.

Prof. Bradford is said to have expressed his willingness and desire to "pass over" is believed to be in Detroit, either awaiting some word from the spirit land, or else, perhaps, in possession of the "great revelation."

One day I saw in a newspaper an account of a bad ulcer having been cured by Zam-Buk. Although I was sceptical, now, of anything curing me—having tried so many remedies in vain—I decided to give Zam-Buk a trial. I applied the balm freely every day and to my delight the sore soon showed some improvement. Gradually the inflammation was drawn out, the pain was ended and after thirty years of suffering, I realized I was on the road to recovery. With perseverance, the awful sore was finally completely healed, and, although that was three years ago, there has not been the slightest trace of the ulcer returning.

Zam-Buk is the best remedy, also, for eczema, boils, pimples, blood-poisoning, piles, burns, scalds and cuts. All dealers or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 50c. box, 3 for $1.25.

WILLOWDALE NOTES

The box social held in the Willowdale school house last Friday evening by the Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church was a decided success. Mr. Fraser, pastor of this congregation, acted as chairman. The beautiful boxes, numbering around thirty, of various shapes and colors, showed the good taste of the young ladies of this community, and Bruce Smith, the auctioneer, did not fail to do his part in getting the most out of them.

The programme, under the able direction of Miss I. K. McLennan, consisted of solos, duets, instrumental, and recitations, and was highly appreciated by all, every item receiving loud applause. Those who took part in the programme were Mr. and Mrs. Steele and Norma Steele, Mrs. Alfred Reay, Miss Gladys Kind, Miss I. K. McLennan, Hugh Hodgkinson, and several of the Willowdale school children.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Sater and Miss Lizzie Pengelly of Springvale also helped in making the evening's entertainment a success. The ladies wish to thank all those who so kindly helped to make this entertainment a success. The proceeds amounted to about $75.00.

FRANCE REPUDIATES
RECREANT PRINCE

The children of Charles, Prince of Croix, and his wife, who was Miss Nancy Leishman, of Pittsburgh, are probably destined to be Germans. Their parents are very anxious to have them reared as French, but, inasmuch as their father and his two brothers fought in the German army, the French court at Valenciennes cannot see the matter in the same light as the former Mrs. Leishman and her noble husband. In origin the Croix family is Belgian and French. For many years members of it have had interests in Germany, although they owned the chateau of Bon Secours, the domain of L'Hennegau, and other property in the north of France. During the war this property was sequestered by the French government. After the war the Prince of Croix, Charles, Engelbert and Antoine, brought an action to recover possession of this property and to establish anew their French citizenship. One of the arguments they presented was that their grandfather had been a French noble. The attitude of the French government is that, even if the Prince were French, they lost their citizenship by serving in the German army. The court at Valenciennes ruled that it could not determine the question of citizenship, but would examine the title to contested property worth some $200,000.

THE WOMAN MEMBER AND MARRIAGE

Lethbridge Herald: The marriage of Miss Alberta Macdonald, a woman member in the legislature at Edmonton, who is now Mrs. Price, and is entered on the roll of the house in her maiden name, raises the interesting question as to whether she is entitled to retain her seat. Will it be one as to what status she now has, in having changed her name? If there happens to be any real disability as to her holding her seat, in the new name she will naturally enjoy, thus entailing her going before her constituents again, it will make the marriage of a splinter member of a local legislature or of parliament, should this be the experience of any of them, a more interesting event than such occasions are regarded in society.

Whether a woman member on being given charge of the kitchen cabinet, which her marriage will imply, be regarded as being in the status of a member who is given Cabinet rank? This is a question which is fraught with a good deal of interest. Should it be held that the marriage of a woman member, in the change of name it occasions, will legally necessitate her going to her constituency, then it will mean that women liberty in the choice of her husband will be considerably limited, in that she has to take the risk of that choice being endorsed by the electorate.

Should it be decided that Mrs. Price, in changing her name, becomes ineligible to hold her seat in the house the decision will be full of interesting possibilities. In the case of a woman who has married, and thereby creates a disappointed rival for her husband, he may seek for revenge by opposing her at the by-election. This will give a very novel interest to by-elections as they may occur on the question of a woman aspiring to the married state. On her part she will have to be very careful in the choice of her mate as to his particular political affiliation, or, again, she will have to be mindful not to have any disappointed rival. There again will arise the question of a safe seat which so often determines the choice of a cabinet minister, with an eye as to what the by-election will result in as it concerns the government of the day.

From a woman's point of view, what will be the result of the late Mrs. Macdonald's marriage, as it concerns her seat in the legislature, is uncommonly interesting. On the decision arrived at hinges the question of women's rights, as to the choice of a woman member of her husband. There will be so many limitations, and the constituency she represents is not considered a safe one by the government to be thrown open for election, it will remain that the government will have to be consulted before marriage. How will the women like this?

SPRINGVALE NOTES

Mrs. Carl Strickland is visiting her mother, Mrs. Bodwell, Hillsdown.

The regular meeting of the Springvale U.P.A. was held Friday evening, February 18th, in the school house. In spite of the cold many people came to make the business interesting and to enjoy the musical numbers. The next meeting will be a dance held in the school on March 4th.

a minimum wage for women was introduced in the Alberta Legislature by Hon. J. H. Boyle, Attorney-General. It provided for the appointment of a commission to regulate the minimum wage, and giving the commissioners power to call and examine witnesses at will.

Violent objections to the bill were taken by Alex. Ross, Labor member for Centre Calgary. W. M. Davidson, Liberal, N.E. Calgary, and Mrs. B. C. Price, now Roberta Macdonald, woman overseas member. These objections were on the ground that the bill did not fix minimum hours, nor did it give authority over female employees of government or municipal bodies. It was urged, too, that it did not provide for women representatives on the commission and that its scope was limited to cities and towns. The Attorney-General seemed surprised at the criticism, and immediately withdrew the bill with a statement practically laying the blame on the Labor member and the women members of the legislature for daring to criticize. The question naturally arises, whether the government was really sincere in the bill, or whether Mr. Boyle was a little peeved. The answer will depend largely on whether or not the government re-introduces the bill with alterations.

CRERAR SPEAKS

Hon. T. A. Crerar, late in coming, broke the silence at the assembly benches in the Commons on Thursday. He discussed many issues, but Mr. Crerar did not show signs of ever being a great parliamentary debater. He hesitated to call the government usurpers, but he chimed in upon the opposition time that the country did not have confidence in the present government and therefore there should be a change. His declaration against old-age pensions was scarcely to his credit. The laboring man, working for his daily bread, cannot under any circumstances provide for his old age, as Mr. Crerar would later. Agriculture as well as the nation in general, is depending on the laboring man to a large extent. When he has served his country to the best of his ability, he is entitled to some protection in his declining years.

He dealt with the tariff superficially in his address, but will probably have more to say later. He credited Mr. Meighen with leaving no doubt as to where he stood on the tariff, the obvious inference from his remarks being that he was taking a lay dig at Mr. King, whose position has been foggy up to date. He summed up the speeches of the other two leaders by saying that in effect McKenzie King had said to the Premier, "We want you to get out," and the Premier had said, "I am going to stay here as long as I can."

RED DEER LOSES

THE MACDONALD

The Olds curling moguls arrived in our fair city Wednesday evening and proceeded to the curling rink, where they met the local team of curlers. It was a real contest. The visitors had very little regard for the local curlers, and they began to grab all they could get right on the start. Red Deer curlers, B. C. Leighton, and J. H. Boyle, began to their visitors. The fact is that, whether by the selfishness of Olds or by the kindness of Red Deer, Red Deer, Olds had secured a very substantial lead, 11 points to be exact, before the first end was over. The fingers on the chalk. Then, for the balance of the regular game, Red Deer took 10 to 6 in short's favor at the getting 18. That tied the score for the two rinks on the regulation 16 ends. Red Deer, however, had the end with a handicap, for Olds had the last rock on both rinks. The result was that Olds scored 18 to 6, while Red Deer scored 10 to 6.

On a veteran skip, R. B. Welliver, was matched against the fighting parson, Rev. J. S. Short. The score stood 10 to 6 in Short's favor at the conclusion of the 6th end. The locals did not succeed in overhauling their opponents, and the score stood 18 to 6 at the end of the 12th end, while Olds scored 6. Short got 1 in the extra end. Welliver's rink lacked the co-operation necessary for a MacDonald competition. Some of his rink mates, such as Sam's Olds met Hugh Clarke, and also met his Waterloo. Clarke took revenge for former defeats and administered a sound thrashing to the Olds export. The score stood 8-7 in favor of Clarke at the end of the 10th. Sam's got a four end in the 11th and Clarke came back with a vengeance and took a pair of tris in the 12th and 13th, followed by a single in the 14th. Sam's scored two on the 15th and Clarke doubled two on the 16th to tie the double rink competition. Sam's scored two on the extra end without throwing his last rock. 'Twas all over.

CURLERS' SUPPER
At the conclusion of the MacDonald Cup game, the members of the opposition, the curling enthusiasts, spent a social hour. After supper, G. G. Johns, acting as chairman, called the gathering to order.

In introducing John Jackson, MacDonald Cup was being presented to someone that had to be away again. Mr. Johns had played a friendly game with Mr. Jackson that evening, and, like a gentleman, he had allowed the visitor to win.

Niven Jackson presented the trophy to Red Deer. Owing to delay in preparing the design, the cup had reached Calgary only three or four days before the curling season was over. He considered it a privilege to meet with Red Deer curlers, who were noted as good sports. He liked challenge competitions better than bonspiels, as curlers got closer together in a social way. He hoped the cup would stay out of Calgary, so that Calgary curlers would be forced to go out and fraternize with curling towns. Mr. Jackson referred to the statement so often made by Flavell, noted skip from Lindsay, Ont., that anybody can win, but it takes a good man to lose.

R. B. Welliver received the trophy on behalf of Red Deer curlers, and expressed appreciation of the benefit that sport would derive from MacDonald cup competitions, and the honor that had come to Red Deer in receiving this, the first trophy offered by the MacDonalds. He stated that

It was the intention of the Curling Club to have a curlers' reunion when the winning of the Wiser trophy would be celebrated; he hoped Red Deer would be as successful in winning the MacDonald. He then turned the new trophy over to Olds, who had just won it, and expressed the hope that Olds would keep it until Red Deer could go and bring it back.

Rev. J. S. Short, in accepting, referred to curling as one of the best fraternal pastimes. He curls for the sake of curling, to give and take, and not in a patronizing way, as some ministers do.

H. A. Samis would rather skip a game than make a speech. Needless to say, he admired curling and said, "Did you ever think how many people it keeps from going to California to spend the winter?"

Hugh Clarke was glad he had been able to defeat Samis and wished he had started to curl when he was younger.

F. G. Barnes, representing Galt's, Ltd., had played on the famous Cassidy rink for 3 or 4 years, in now with Samis's rink in Calgary. He had many friends in curling, and hoped to meet Red Deer boys again.

It is thought that the exchange of the Wiser and MacDonald cups with Olds had satisfied the honor of all concerned, and satisfactorily solved the argument for closing the Wiser competition.

Joe LaFrance had enjoyed the game and was just as glad that Olds had won this time.

Secretary Kent was instructed to forward a challenge at once for a game to bring the trophy back to Red Deer.

THE TROPHY

The cup is of massive design, mounted on a heavy square wooden base. The whole design stands about the same height as the Wiser trophy, and is surrounded by a silver curling stone. It bears the following inscription: "The MacDonald Curling Trophy, presented by W. C. MacDonald, Esq., Montreal, 1921, as a challenge trophy for double rink competition, to the Alberta Branch R. C. C. C."

A. G. Smith, Staff of Forestry Dept. at Rocky Mountain House, passed through the city yesterday, en route to his home. He is busy these days looking after the timber business. The aeroplane for patrol work will be on hand in ample time for the spring season.

Out of this season's bewildering dictates of Fashion, one thought stands clear—you must appear natural.
 Uncorrected? No! Emphatically No! Certainly fashions and suits never more definitely demanded the foundation of a clever corset. When Paris says you should look "uncorrected," Paris means you should wear a corset so deftly designed to be a part of yourself that it merely accentuates the natural beauty of your figure and the most critical observer will not be able to trace your charm to its subtle support.
